

Discreet home monitoring for independent living

Carers receive instant updates and warning alarms straight to their mobile phone, enabling them to quickly respond to emergencies and unusual events.

24-hour online reporting allows carers to monitor activities remotely, from any location and using any device with internet access, helping to eliminate the guesswork.

Routines and capabilities can be assessed to identify where extra help might be needed throughout the day or night, facilitating better care.

Vulnerable people are successfully supported to live independently in their own homes for longer, safe in the knowledge that help will be there if they need it.
